NATURE OF THE ACTION

This is an in rem action asserted under the Anticybersquatting Consumer Protection Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(d)(2)(A) (“ACPA”), against the Abusive Domain Names. An unknown scammer has maliciously used the Abusive Domain Names in violation of Latham’s trademark rights to unlawfully, and in bad faith, derive a profit by defrauding members of the public. In the emails that Latham is aware of, the scammer has used the Abusive Domain Names to email members of the public and Latham’s clients purporting to be a Latham partner in Latham’s Paris office. It is possible that the scammer has impersonated different Latham attorneys or staff in other instances of which Latham is presently unaware. In the emails, the scammer attempts to collect payment for a purportedly pending invoice. By registering and using the Abusive Domain Names and impersonating Latham personnel, the scammer has not only attempted to defraud Latham’s clients and other members of the public, the scammer has violated and harmed Latham’s longstanding trademark rights and damaged Latham’s outstanding reputation and goodwill. This conduct constitutes cyberpiracy in violation of the ACPA, and Latham accordingly seeks an order transferring the Abusive Domain Names to Latham to halt this scam.

49. Since its founding in Los Angeles in 1934, Latham has offered professional legal services under the LATHAM & WATKINS trademark and associated logos and terms, including the LW mark, which is shorthand for Latham & Watkins.

50. For example, Latham uses the LW mark as its profile picture on Facebook, LinkedIn, YouTube, Twitter, and Instagram. See <https://www.facebook.com/lathamwatkins>; <https://www.linkedin.com/company/latham-&-watkins>; <https://www.youtube.com/user/lathamwatkinsglobal>; <https://twitter.com/lathamwatkins>; <https://www.instagram.com/lathamwatkins/>.

51. Latham also owns and operates the <lw.com> domain name and uses it to host its primary website, send and receive emails, and otherwise conduct business across the world. Latham registered the <lw.com> domain name in October 1994 and has continuously used it since.

52. Latham personnel's email addresses are formatted as: [FirstName].[LastName]@lw.com. The <lw.com> domain name uniquely identifies Latham and assures clients, opposing parties, and other stakeholders that they are in fact corresponding with a Latham lawyer or employee. Because the <lw.com> domain name features the distinctive LW mark, the public has come to associate the LW trademark and the <lw.com> domain name with Latham and, in turn, with the high standard of excellence Latham has earned and maintained over its many decades of providing high-quality legal services.

53. Latham also owns and maintains a large portfolio of “lw” derivative domain names, such as <lwcommunicate.com>, <lwlawcasts.com>, and several others. In particular, Latham owns “lw” derivative domain names incorporating letters identifying the countries in which it operates. For example, Latham owns the <us-lw.com> and <uk-lw.com> domain names.

54. Through Latham’s widespread and continuous use of the “LW” term to provide its legal services in interstate commerce, the LW trademark has acquired extensive goodwill, developed a high degree of distinctiveness, and become well-known and recognized as identifying services originating from Latham. Latham, accordingly, has obtained strong trademark rights in the LW term, as well as all associated trademarks (e.g., LATHAM & WATKINS). See, e.g., U.S. Trademark Registration Nos. 2413795, 4986824, 4976906, 4968228.

The Fraudulent Acts Conducted Through The Abusive Domain Names

55. Latham recently learned of a complex, far-ranging scam being perpetrated against its clients as well as the public. The fraudster(s) used the Abusive Domain Names to impersonate a Latham partner located in Latham’s Paris office, Alexandra Bigot, and attempted to collect payment on falsified invoices.

56. All of the Abusive Domain Names bear an obvious similarity to Latham’s domain names and trademarks, and are plainly attempts to impersonate Latham and exploit domain names that contain a name (LW) that is commonly used to refer to Latham. Indeed, the Abusive Domain Names often simply combine Latham's legitimate domain name, lw.com, with a generic location identifier for France (i.e., "fr-", "fr", or "fra"). The addition of this generic location identifier is either as a prefix or a suffix to lw and is often in combination with another letter. In each case, the domain name includes Latham's trademark and legitimate domain name: lw. Upon information and belief, the fraudster used country identifiers associated with France to make the fraudulent email appear legitimate, since the fraudster was impersonating Ms. Bigot, a partner in Latham's Paris office. Upon information and belief, the fraudster's goal of registering the Abusive Domain Names was to deceive unsuspecting victims into paying falsified invoices.

57. The fraudster used the same fraudulent formula with each of the Abusive Domain Names. Using one of the Abusive Domain Names, the fraudster would create an email address to impersonate Ms. Bigot. The scammer would then email third parties to "remind" them of unpaid invoices. The scammer even included vague threats to the third-party victims, suggesting that they "resolve it today to avoid other accusations."

58. To make the scam emails appear more legitimate, the scammer signed the email as Ms. Bigot. The scammer also included the LATHAM & WATKINS trademark, the address for Latham's Paris office (<https://www.lw.com/en/offices/paris>), and a link to Latham's legitimate website: www.lw.com.

59. As an example, on April 18, 2023, the scammer, using the lwfeu.com domain name, created an email address designed to impersonate Ms. Bigot: alexandrabigot@lwfeu.com. While Ms. Bigot is in fact a partner in Latham's Paris office, she uses an email address originating from Latham's legitimate domain name, lw.com.

60. Using the email address designed to impersonate Ms. Bigot, the scammer emailed a third party to remind them of an invoice and asked the third party to "resolve it today to avoid other accusations.” Per the scammer’s modus operandi, the scammer signed the email as Ms. Bigot. In the signature block, the scammer reproduced Latham’s LATHAM & WATKINS mark and included the address of Latham’s Paris office and Latham’s legitimate website: www.lw.com.

61. Fortunately, the third party did not fall for the scam, and notified Ms. Bigot and Latham of the fraud attempt. Attached as Exhibit 40 is a true and correct copy of a certified English translation of the scam email chain using the lwfeu.com domain name.

62. Upon information and belief, each of the Abusive Domain Names were used by the scammer in an identical or nearly identical manner. To Latham’s knowledge, at least 50 third parties were contacted by the scammer using the Abusive Domain Names. Attached as Exhibits 41-76 are true and correct copies of certified English translations of scam email chains using almost every one of the Abusive Domain Names. To avoid burdening the Court, Latham has not attached all evidence of these scam emails. Further, Latham has received phone calls from would-be victims who identified abuse of these domain names, including the LW-FNT.com domain name.

63. On April 26, 2023, Latham wrote to Namecheap demanding that the Abusive Domain Names registered through Namecheap, as identified in Exhibit 77, be disabled, that the true owner’s identity be revealed, and that the Abusive Domain Names registered through Namecheap be surrendered to Latham. Despite further attempts to contact the registrar, Latham never received a substantive response.

64. On April 26, 2023, Latham wrote to Above.com demanding that the Abusive Domain Names registered through Above.com, as identified in Exhibit 78, be disabled, that the true owner’s identity be revealed, and that the Abusive Domain Names registered through Above.com be surrendered to Latham. Despite further attempts to contact the registrar, Latham never received a substantive response.

65. Latham is deeply concerned that these fraudulent schemes are ongoing. As members of the public continue to be deceived by the confusing similarity of the Abusive Domain Names to Latham's widely recognized LW mark, Latham's valuable trademark rights are being violated and damaged, its reputation and goodwill are being sullied, and (most importantly) members of the public continue to be harmed by the unknown scammer using the Abusive Domain Names to reap (in bad faith) a profit.

COUNT I

Violation of the ACPA – 15 U.S.C. § 1125(d)(2)(A)

66. Latham incorporates by reference the factual allegations set forth above.

67. The LATHAM & WATKINS trademark and associated logos and terms (including "LW") are protectable within the meaning of 15 U.S.C. § 1125(d)(1)(A)(ii).

68. The unknown registrant of the Abusive Domain Names has registered, trafficked in, and/or used the Abusive Domain Names, which are identical or confusingly similar to, or dilutive of, Latham's trademarks in violation of the ACPA.

69. The unknown registrant has profited in bad faith from the unauthorized registration and use of the Abusive Domain Names by, for example, impersonating Latham employees to attempt to defraud clients and the general public by using the confusingly similar Abusive Domain Names (all of which are close derivatives of the LW mark and the <lw.com> domain name) in violation of Latham's protected rights.

70. The unauthorized registration and use of the Abusive Domain Names must be enjoined to prevent further irreparable injury to the substantial and valuable goodwill associated with Latham's marks, as well as prevent any future harm to unsuspecting members of the public.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Latham respectfully prays for the following relief:

A. An injunction ordering the transfer of the Abusive Domain Names to Latham pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1125(d)(2)(D)(i);

B. An injunction ordering the registry of the Abusive Domain Names to change the registrar of record for the domain name to a registrar of Latham's selection, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1125(d)(2)(D)(i);

C. An order pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1125(d) finding that, by the acts complained above, Latham's valuable and strong trademarks have been infringed;

D. An order pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1117(a) finding that this is an exceptional case and awarding Latham its reasonable attorneys' fees;

E. An order pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1117(a) awarding Latham all of its costs, disbursements, and other expenses incurred due to the unlawful conduct at issue;

F. An order awarding Latham pre-judgment interest; and

G. An order awarding Latham any other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

Dated: October 31, 2023
